

KATHERINE E. BAKER KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Katherine Baker is Founder and CEO of Intrinsic Energy, an EdTech platform revolutionising corporate training methods, to make learning and development more impactful and accessible for all.

With over 8 years of experience as a trainer and speaker, working for companies such as Cisco, Unilever, Schroder's and Goldman Sachs, Katherine has helped hundreds of clients develop the skills required to take their careers to the next level. Katherine's clients span a number of markets including Europe, The United States, Australia and Asia.

Through engaging and dynamic workshops, talks, and webinars, Katherine helps drive sustainable business practice and supports companies in achieving and maintaining prominence in the global economy. She works to increase participants professional abilities through instilling an understanding of powerful and motivational communication skills while also ensuring they get to truly understand themselves.

The ability to lead with authenticity, be resilient to change and strive towards one's goals enables great leadership and corporate productivity. Being a successful team leader, building businesses or maximising your personal potential is founded in excellent communication skills and knowing yourself.

Katherine believes in continuous learning for everyone and therefore also co-founded Congress London a non-profit women's co-mentoring network, to deliver tools and skills to women wanting to improve their professional lives. Featured in Marie Claire magazine, the Evening Standard, Forbes Magazine and The Economist, Katherine hosts Congress London's regular large events for their members.

Katherine has a Bachelor of Science Cum Laude with a double major in Psychology and Art History from Vanderbilt University (USA). She is a certified Trainer, Coach and WebEx facilitator, allowing her to deliver workshops and live online webinars to clients around the world.
